Correspondence.

Mr. Editor,

Sir--We are glad to see that "Paw" has come out from behind his little gal and shown us just where he stands.

So "Paw" you don't like to have the Liquor Act called Prohibition and you regard it as an attempt to mislead the voters. You make a serious charge but you have given no proof--you can't, for it is not true. This Bill is Prohibition as the English speaking world understands that term. It is quite as useless for you to fight against such a world-wide use of words as for you to fight against Prohibition itself.

You object, however, to such regulation as it interferes with your personal liberty. Do you not see, that to be consistent, you would do away with all civil laws. All legislation is an invasion of personal liberty, and is justified on the ground of the well being of society. Civilization is the process of surrendering private liberty for the benefits of a community life. Now, if a man does not wish to give up any of his so-called rights it may become a Hottock, and do that which is right in his own eyes. You know some object to laws re fire arms, prairie fires and sanitation, and all forms of quarantine; and their argument is "I object to be treated as though I had not the power to judge for myself!" These are the people who make such laws necessary. Legislation becomes necessary as civilization advances, as our interests become more interrelated, all because of the few who ignore the rights of others and think only of themselves.

The world movement against the liquor traffic is due to the awakening of the social conscience. Britain's glory to-day is that conscription is not necessary to meet the great demands, because Britons are not standing on private rights but are alive to the rights of humanity.

I am sorry Paw that you think I object to your interest in the back lanes and in the sanitary conditions of the town. You are quite mistaken. I give you credit for all you have done in that line. But the point I wish to make is, that no one can understand the great demand for prohibition whose outlook is limited to such things and to personal liberty. Such a man can never understand much less appreciate the attitude of the farmers and business men generally, of the commercial travellers and all social workers, of Kitchener and Lloyd George who claim that the drink business is a more deadly enemy to Britain than--Germany. You have said nothing in "Here and There" to show that you have considered these facts at all.

Paw, you are a "Daniel come to judgment," when you say that we must consider the rising generation, and that we must teach them self-restraint. Who are the friends of the children? Those who oppose the liquor traffic? Those who teach self-restraint or those who teach "moderate indulgence?" Those who stand for personal liberty or those who subordinate personal inclinations to the well-being of others?

Surely, Paw, you do not mean us to take you seriously, when you quote scripture to show that the bar-room is desirable as a means for developing christian manhood! Do you really mean what you say?

You believe in compensation. Would you tell exactly what this community or any other, owe to the bar? Would you apply the principle of compensation to the traffic and compel it to compensate the men, women and children whose living it has taken away? We want nothing more than what is just.

Thanking you Mr. Editor.

IT STOPS THE TWINGES OF RHEUMATISM, LIMBERS THE MUSCLES, EASES THE JOINTS

Amazing Relief Comes at Once--Cure Every Time

USE NERVILINE

Aching joints and sore muscles are common in rheumatic people. Inflammation is deep in the tissues. You must use a strong medicine to give real relief less than Nerviline will give you in half an hour. Nerviline is a pain-killer that works five times stronger than most remedies, not that it affects the nervous system, but that its power is due to its wonderful penetrating quality—it strikes in deeply, but never burns or blisters.

No Alcohol, More Work.

Marked Increase in the Productivity of the Worker in Russia

In an explanatory note to the Russian minister of finance states that the termination of the general recruitment has permitted the gradual restoration of the production of the principal manufactured. Thus the loading of goods trucks during November was only 23 per cent below that of November, 1914, and the considerable portion of the country occupied by the enemy, the industrial life of the country has not suffered. The present situation is relatively favorable, an is explained by the increase in the production of the workers due to the suppression of the use of alcohol. The increase of productivity has reached 30 to 50 per cent and compensates largely for the diminution in the number of workers due to the call to the colors.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

Little Invasion of Men's Work

For the first time inquiries made in the chief cities and towns of the Kingdom concerning the effect of the war upon women wage earners. It is clear that in the smallest degree the war thus far has had no effect upon women work hitherto done by men. Exhaustive inquiries have failed to elicit any information that would lead to employ girls and women in the place of youths and men. Here and there one comes across instances of such a substitution, but rarely on so small a scale to be other than exceptions to the general rule.

Women and Asthma—Women are numbered among the sufferers from asthma by the countless thousands. In every climate they will be found to affect the grip of this disease unless they have availed themselves of the proper remedy. Dr. J. D. Kinnear, of St. John, N.B., has new hope and life to many such. Testimonials, sent entirely without solicitation, show the enormous benefit it has brought among women everywhere.

"Ha, ha," sneered the lawyer in court, "your doctors are all alike. Your operations are always successful, but your patients die."

"Something happens," said the doctor calmly, "but we doctors have nothing on you lawyers. You win great victories for your clients, but you get all the money."

Just rub Nerviline into sore muscles, stiff joints and note the ease of pain that follows.

You are astonished, delighted; this is because words do not express the power and the results with which Nerviline cures every ache and pain in the muscles and joints.

Marvelous, you'll say. Natural, we say. Nerviline is a pain-killer, stronger, more penetrating, a true pain-subduer. Just try it and see if it doesn't rid you of rheumatic neuralgia, tension, strains and sprains.

A Modest Hero?

Count Pilsudski, on returning to his castle in Hungary, according to the Vossische Zeitung, one of his old servants who had just been sent back wounded from the front, said: "I have not been wounded, but I hear you fought valiantly at the front," said the count. "I should like to give you some reward for your valour."

The old servant replied: "Well, if you insist upon it, sir, just give me enough kronen to reach from here to Warsaw."

"It sounds to me to be a very small reward," replied the count, smiling at the old man.

"It's enough for me, sir," answered the servant, modestly.

As the count was about to compliment the servant, he said: "I see that the servant had only one ear, and remarked upon the fact."

"Yes, sir, I left the other ear on the modest man."

There is no poisonous ingredient in Hollister's Corn Cure, and it can be used without danger of injury.

Och, Suren! Vs. Wren!

A famous medical student was half a dozen students who accompanied him. One of the students was a doubtful case, he said. "Now, gentlemen, do you think it is safe to let him alone?" One of the students made their diagnosis, and all of them came to the conclusion that he was not ill, but rather you are all wrong," said the surgeon. "I will operate tomorrow," "Och, sure and ye won't," exclaimed Paddy. "I am a good man," he said. "Sire, wan is a good majority. Nurse, give me my clothes, I'm going home."

Germs as Small as Dummies

The following story is told by Col. Edward Serocold, of the King's Royal Rifles, who has been invalided.

The Royal Rifles found themselves in the open with a man and a woman who had been invalided from the German aeroplane.

"One of the battalions received a tremendous consignment of German aeroplane germs,"

"They were given the name of 'the enemy trench' and were sheltered in the enemy trench for three or four days before finding out their mistake."

Miss P. Parker, of Calgary, has been the guest of Mrs. W. Brandon for the past week.

Mr. Louis Bliss was a Calgary visitor over Monday.

Mrs. Shaw and children paid a visit to Calgary for a couple of days.

Mr. and Mrs. Borbridge and family, and Mr. Bert Lilley, of Calgary were visitors at the home of W. Landymore over Sunday.

A meeting was held at the home Mr. Corkhill at which an Inverlea Baseball Team was organised. Mr. MacDougall was chosen manager, and Mr. Bill captain.

On Friday night, April 16th, a dance and card social was given at Mr. and Mrs. Brandon's place six miles south-west of town. The evening proved a complete success, while the young folks were tripping the light fantastic the more settled ones enjoyed a few games of cards. At midnight, after the one best dance was completed, supper was served, and for an hour those present were entertained by Tom Wilson and Miss Bellies, who told "Our" fortunes in A No. 1 style, then the spirits were driven among the guests by two of the ladies, after that dancing and cards took up the time well into the "wee sma'" hours everyone present having spent an enjoyable evening, and recognised in Mr. and Mrs. Brandon a very able host and hostess.

The music was supplied of course by the reliable Tom. Who by the way is stocking up, and starting on his own. The callers in their glee, who constantly filled the floor, while waltzes, two steps and quadrilles, were medicine for all human ills. The coffee was delicious—and it understood everyone enjoyed themselves, for innocent pleasure's good, for a good work and no play makes life a misery.

But I will close my little song, I'm glad its off my mind.

A very pretty wedding took place at the Hillhurst Presbyterian Manse, Calgary, on Tuesday, April 20th, when Miss Louis Hincklewood became the wife of Mr. William Whitelaw, both well known in Crossfield.

The bride was charmingly attired in white embroidery trimmed with pink satin, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The wedding breakfast was served at Cronn's Rathskellar when many guests were present. The bride and bridegroom left for Crossfield the following day, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Social Life in the Country. Come listen to my story, it won't be very long.

So sit up and take notice, while I sing my little song.

While we are a busy people, in an hour we may...

The tilling of the soil—in a patriotic way...

To make up a world's shortage, the staff...

To grow...

It is not always a pleasure, don't you think it so...

It's very hot and dusty work, ten hours a day or more...

It's hard work for the horses, but a chap gets still and sore.

Standing on the seed drill, and sitting on the plow...

Both eyes are more so loaded, that you can't see a solemn woe...

So a local dancing party, is as good's a place as any...

So we head way to Brandon's—in the Coules don't you know...

And just put in a lovely time, tripping the light fantastic too...

All honor to the horses, for such a lovely time...

Our inward wants were well supplied with what we had and fine.

The music was supplied of course by the reliable Tom...

Who by the way is stocking up, and starting on his own...

The callers in their glee, who constantly filled the floor...

While waltzes, two steps and quadrilles, were medicine for all human ills.

The coffee was delicious—and it understood...

Everyone enjoyed themselves, for innocent pleasure's good...

For a good work and no play makes life a misery...

But I will close my little song, I'm glad its off my mind.
